Disability Etiquette

People with All Types of Disabilities

- Introduce yourself, offer a handshake.
  - People with limited hand use or those who wear artificial limbs can usually shake hands.
- Always ask before providing assistance.
- Speak directly to the person and not their attendant, interpreter, family member, etc.
- Do not pet service animals without asking the owner first.
- Ask questions if you are unsure how to proceed.

Disability Etiquette

People with Mobility Disabilities

- Do not push/touch a person's wheelchair/scooter without their permission.
- Place yourself at eye level in front of the person's wheelchair to facilitate conversations.

People who are Blind or Low Vision

- Always introduce yourself and anyone else who is present.
- Tell the person if you leave the room. Explain interruptions.
- Offer to read information to the person when appropriate.
- If you are asked to offer guidance, offer your arm so the person can grasp your elbow and proceed at a normal pace. Do not take a person's arm and move them by the elbow.

Disability Etiquette

People who are Deaf or Hard of Hearing

- Get the person's attention before you begin to communicate.
- Let the person establish their preferred method of communication for your conversation. (Ex: lip reading, sign language, note writing.)
- Use gestures and visual cues. (Ex: holding up items that you are discussing.)
- Explain interruptions.

Disability Etiquette

People with Speech and Language Disorders

- Be patient, respectful, and sensitive.
- Do not interrupt or finish the person's sentence.
- If the person uses any assistive technology devices, make sure the devices are within the person's reach.

People with Cognitive or Intellectual Disabilities

- Keep communication simple. Use short sentences and complete one topic before moving to the next.
- If possible, use pictures and visual aids.
- Ask if the person has any questions or if they would like for you to clarify anything.

Disability Etiquette

People with Mental Health or Behavioral Health Disabilities

- If a person seems anxious or agitated, speak calmly and offer to repeat information.
- If a person seems nervous or confused, offer to break things down step-by-step to help them understand.
- Respect a person's choice of language or terminology. For example, if they ask you to refer to something as a “mental health condition” instead of a “mental illness,” listen to their request.
